Ambassador Keeley is married to the former Louise Schoonmaker. They have two children, a daughter and a son. Their state of domicile is Florida.

During the past year, while at the Center for the Study of Foreign Affairs, Keeley has been writing a memoir of his service as Deputy Chief of Mission and Charge d'Affaires at the Embassy in Kampala, Uganda, during the early years of the Idi Amin regime, 1971 to 1973.

Ambassador Keeley was recently elected President of the American Foreign Service Association, the professional organization and trade union of American career diplomats. He will resign that post when and if confirmed by the U.S. Senate as Ambassador to Greece.

Keeley has had a long and close association with Greece dating back to his childhood. From 1936 to 1939 he lived in Thessaloniki while his father was serving as the American Consul General in that city. In 1946 he lived in Athens while his father was Deputy Chief of Mission and Consul General at the Embassy. Keeley attended Athens College and worked as a district secretary and interpreter at Tripolis in the Peloponnesus for the Allied Mission for Observing the Greek Elections.

Since 1970 Ambassador and Mrs. Keeley have regularly taken their summer vacations in Greece.

The Ambassador's brother, Edmund L. Keeley, Professor of English and Director of the Creative Writing Program at Princeton University, is well-known in Greece as a translator of the principal modern Greek poets: Cavafy, Seferis, Elytis, Sikellianos and Ritsos. He is also a novelist and has published several books of criticism on modern Greek literature. He is currently teaching at the University of Athens under the Fulbright program.
